

Time Line of Selected Mammals in North America

Although the horse appears to have become extinct in North America, the horse survived in Eurasia under the same climate as in North America. But the Saber Tooth Cat and Woolly Mammoth went completely extinct in the same environment. According to Claire Henderson, HISTORY DEPARTMENT, BATIMENT DE KONINCK, LAVAL UNIVERSITY QUEBEC CITY, QUEBEC CANADA, "The horse is aboriginal to North America, and biologists can offer no scientific reasons for its extinction here and not in Eurasia."
